

Our Mission Statement

We stand behind our mission to provide quality, convenient promotional products with passion and integrity. At MyInkADo, we understand that every small business deserves the opportunity to shine, and that's why we're committed to offering custom apparel solutions that make advertising your brand easy and effective. We're dedicated to helping your company succeed with products that reflect your values and vision.

This is the place where all the information of the Company will go

If there is something that has happened, this is where it should go. If there is an issue, we should place the resolution here and in the SOP section of the site. We should put the people that are working here along with when they started and when they leave overall. We should have here all information that goes about the business itself and how it is moving forward. In a few years looking back on this may tell us something, rather good or bad. Also, issues that arise that are placed here with their resolutions would be a gold mine when coming across similar issues in the future.

Lastly this should link the entire site so that if someone doesn't know where to look for something, they can go here and get a running tally of everything that has happened, similar to a weekly newsletter and in each one we link to the different parts of the site that have complementary information.
